COMMENTARY

The Seilern World Growth USD U I share class was up +1.2% in October, underperforming the MSCI World TR by -1.3%. Year to date, the fund is up +27.4%, outperforming its benchmark by +6.8%. United Health was the strongest performer this month, increasing by +16.3%. The company announced strong third quarter results, which were above consensus estimates, and which were driven by stable medical costs. The company also raised its financial year 2020 guidance following some confident commentary from the management team regarding accelerating growth. Rightmove was the second strongest performer for the month of October, up +8.7%. While there was no stock specific news, shares rallied on optimism that Brexit may proceed to the next stage. CHR Hansen was the worst performer this month, the stock was down -11.6%. The company released a weak set of results which management primarily blamed on Macro headwinds in emerging markets and negative customer dynamics. Estée Lauder was the second worst performer this month. The stock was down -6.4% despite releasing very strong Q1 results. The market was disappointed by management downgrading its full year outlook on the industry blaming macro headwinds and giving Q2 guidance below market expectations.
